Kraydel

we care

Kraydel is the wellness partner for the elderly, reducing loneliness, isolation and enabling safe, independent living.

The Health and Care system is not geared towards maintaining wellness for the Elderly.

Elders value the ability to remain at home and socially engaged; to continue with activities that give their life meaning; to contribute to their family or community; to feel safe and to maintain independence, and to feel they are not a 'burden' to their own families. Unobtrusive technology has a significant role to play in rebalancing the system towards prevention - enabling elderly people to live longer and better in their own homes.

Kraydel is a technology-based service that uses the best and most familiar interface in the home the TV, providing connectivity with friends, family and health professionals, monitoring health and promoting wellness. It wraps health & care services around the individual, in their own home, being a key driver in the shift away from today's acute models.

The Kraydel Approach

Kraydel combines 3 complementary capabilities to maintain and improve wellness.

Kraydel Oversight

A unique device packed with motion, sound, light and heat sensors. It provides a 24hr picture of physical and mental health, delivers medicine and other reminders and uses machine learning to understand changes and alert care-givers to risks.

Kraydel Lounge

Combats social isolation through live interactive content direct to the user including fitness, clubs, and inter-generational activities, in addition to health advice and signposting of local health services.

Kraydelytics

Collects and analyses data for a wide range of applications and customers, supporting performance and compliance of care organisations, high level trends of health and wellbeing, and has the potential to detect early signs of illness.
